

ABSTRACT

A master controller (computer) using a database of information about remote devices to operate certain activities of the remote devices over a wireless link formed by a signal transmitter which wirelessly relays signals from the master controller to a satellite, which wirelessly relays the signal to a transmitter tower, which wirelessly relays the signal to a signal receiver, which directs the signal to an intelligent agent (computer) which has two-way communication with one or more of the remote devices.

05927194-081004